If a customer places an order for a product on your website that you have assigned as "dropship", this simply means that the supplier will fulfil the "dropship" items on order. In other words, the supplier will pick, pack and ship these items to your customer. If an order only contains dropship products you don't have to do anything.

The wholesale cost of the product will be deducted from the total of the order, along with the shipping cost, website management fee of 5% and a small card processing fee. The remainder will be added to your account and paid to you at the end of the month.
